Four girls on area teams playing Friday for conference championships

Kim Cahoon looks you straight in the eye when she speaks. She shakes your hand with a firm, strong grip.

Her ambition is to be a fighter pilot for the Marines and the place she's building her character and her strength is on the football field.

"You learn a lot about respect and a lot of responsibilities," said Cahoon, a sophomore wing back/linebacker for Central Catholic's top-ranked football team. "You learn a lot about doing the best you can, 110 percent. The coaches talk all the time about doing more than you think you can do."

Last year Cahoon was a member of CC's state championship team. On for the Hoosier Conference title. At Harrison, senior defensive lineman Hayley Cutter and freshman receiver Liz Jones are a part of the Raiders program that has a chance to claim its first conference title since 1996.

North Newton junior offensive and defensive lineman Tia Hook is one of 38 players for the Spartans, who can claim a Greater South Shore Conference championship with a win over Hanover Central.

The head coach of each of those teams echoes a similar sentiment when speaking about their female participants.

"Pound for pound, she holds her own," North Newton coach Jeff Bean said of Hook. "She might not be the WASHINGTON - Caleb Swanigan winced a little while watching game film recently with his Purdue basketball teammates.

The footage, only a few months old, seemed much older to Swanigan. The film showed a turnover-prone freshman still adjusting to a higher level of competition. The other Boilermakers even remarked on how young their 6-foot-9, 250-pound power forward looked.

Yet right now, Swanigan describes himself as experiencing a time warp of sorts. The preseason All-Big Ten Conference selection has come so far since his arrival at Purdue. The approaching season, one he hopes includes his transition from promising prospect to professional, can't get here fast enough.

"It feels like light years ago, when I was playing against Old Dominion and just struggling," Swanigan said at Big Ten Media Day on Thursday. "The season's almost here. It feels close but also feels far at the same time, because it's right there. This is a time when time feels slow."

Swanigan carries himself with a different demeanor than a year ago at this time. More casual, yet more assured.

His teammates say he's come out of his shell — talking more, engaging more socially, even taking to Instagram to roast the entire roster over the summer. Purdue forward Vincent Edwards said it was a matter of Swanigan placing his trust in a group of teammates who had shown themselves worthy of it.

That change in demeanor is one contrast that stood out to the rest of the KOKOMO - Jakub Hall scored three goals and Max Miller set a school record for assists in a season as the top-ranked Harrison Raiders rolled to a 9-0 victory over Delta in the Kokomo Regional semifinals Thursday night.

The Raiders (18-0-1), ranked No. 1 in Class 2A, will have much stiffer competition in the final on Saturday night against No. 10 Hamilton Southeastern (15-2-4). The Royals beat Marion 5-2 in the first semifinal contest.

"(Hamilton SE) is a fantastic team," Harrison coach Bryan Clouse said. "They beat us 2-1 in the summer, so it's going to be a great game on Saturday night. If you asked (Hamilton SE coach) Chris White, we both thought we may be in this position. Both teams will come ready to play and it's going to be a fantastic game."

The Raiders starters at least will be well-rested, playing just one-half as they blew out to a 7-0 lead midway through the game. Hall scored on a penalty kick a little more than five minutes in and added his second score, beating Delta goalie Zion Osner 40 seconds later for a fast 2-0 advantage.

"It always helps to start fast because the rest of the game we can sit back a little bit and possess the ball," Hall said. "When we do that, that's when we play our best. Our midfielders are so good at getting the forwards the ball. Mo (Mohamed Ayad) and I really benefit from that. Our midfielders get a bunch of assists and they do the most for us."

One of those midfielders, Miller, added two assists to his season total of 18 on the year to establish a new standard for the season. He said the Raiders are playing at a high level on both ends of the field right now.

"We have a lot of momentum going for us right now," Miller said. "We've scored 24 goals in three games now. The offense is really clicking now and the defense is getting shutouts, so I

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Conference titles are up for grabs

Sam King
sking@jconline.com

Tippecanoe School Corp. could have two North Central Conference champions. Harrison's loss at Kokomo last Friday opened the door for McCutcheon to earn a share.

Both are in the same situation this week.

Win a game, get a trophy. "After watching film, I think we just got beat by a team that was a little better than us last week," Harrison coach Terry Peebles said. "It doesn't change our goals. Our goal is to win a conference championship. That is still attainable."

It now is attainable for McCutcheon, too.

Coach Ken Frauhiger followed through on his backflip promise of a week ago, although he needed spotters to make it happen.

Now the Mavericks welcome Marion to the best environment in Friday night football in this area with all of its preseason goals back in place.

Expect chaos at Ellison Stadium, where the Mavericks are 4-0 this season.

"We don't need extra motivation," Frauhiger said. "It's senior night and if they can't get motivated to win on senior night, then they should go play chess."

For Harrison, it's been 20 years of waiting. McCutcheon was the NCC champion in its first year in the league in 2014.

If both walk away with the league crown, they perhaps can settle it when they meet in the sectional semifinal in two weeks.

But first, they're worried about the final regular season game.

Harrison must beat Richmond. "We think with the practices we've had this week, we feel we're in a pretty good position to do that," Peebles said.

McCutcheon will have to atone for a talented group of Marion playmakers.

"They've got three or four guys we don't know if we can catch," Frauhiger said. "We've got to make sure we do a good job keeping guys in front of us."

Hoosier title

Kevin O'Shea said the days of going undefeated for his Central Catholic Knights would end when they joined the Hoosier Conference in 2011.

CC travels to Tipton tonight to play for the Hoosier Conference championship. The Knights can win their fifth league title in six years since joining the Hoosier Conference with a win.

Central Catholic defeated Tipton 51-23 on Sept. 2.

"I know we played Tipton before, but that was way back in Week 3," O'Shea said. "What happened in Week 3 really doesn't matter. We're a different team now than we were back then."

And they will be a different team than they have been all season with the inclusion of running back Kavon Clark, who will see limited snaps for the first time after breaking his wrist in the scrimmage one week before the first regular season game.

"He'll play eight-to-10 snaps give or take," said O'Shea, who inserted Clark in the junior varsity game on Monday to accustom him to taking hits. "The following week, we will probably up it a bit. Kavon is one of those guys that can be a big hitter for us."

Cougar town

The community has rallied behind the undefeated Carroll Cougars, who can do something they haven't done in 20 years if they can defeat Sheridan.

The Cougars defeated the Blackhawks 13-0 earlier this season. Tonight's matchup is for the Hoosier Crossroads Conference title. A win would be the first outright league title for Carroll since 1996. Carroll tied for a league championship in 2000.

"It's been really exciting
